

WARNING: THESE MINUTES WERE COMPILED UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF A BEER. THEREFORE THEY MAY BE IRRESPONSIBLE AND UNWORTHY OF THE ATTENTION OF SOBER PEOPLE. HOWEVER, IF ONE REALLY WANTS TO "UNDERSTAND" THIS TEXT, READING WHILE DRINKING A BEER IS HEARTILY RECOMMENDED.

DRAMATIS PERSONAE: Nancy Petersen as The Pilgrim, Valerie Mudslug as Vergil, The Famous Jim McDonald as The Greyhound, Tom Reber as Catiline, Kay Halasek as St. Lucie, Jane Hiles as a Reluctant Beatrice, Joe Alkana as The Vestibule, Kathy McDonough as three of the seven deadly sins, Shelli Fowler as Fugitive Hope, Julia Lowther as a Shade of a Doubt, Rick Penticoff as Divine Justice, Greg Lyons as Grace and Works, Kaye Parker as a pocketful of lust, Joann Campbell as Splendor, Bob Wren as the Eighth Circle and Tom Hofheinz as Paolo.

Bob Wren, at the behest of the Mudslug, shot a passing freshman. Tom Reber administered artificial persuasion, convincing the fellow that he was unhurt; thus demonstrating the healing power of rhetoric and the weekly AGSE meeting commenced.

10. The Spring Party is still on for March 8. More details, later this week.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK:

"We have but one support left: hope for none."
