Placement in English

Before enrolling in English 306, all students must have taken the achievement test in English Composition (ECT) of the College Entrance Examination Board.

Before seeing their advisers at registration, freshman students must have their ECT scores and must get an authorization to register for English 306 from the Freshman English Office, Parlin Hall 16.

Foreign students whose native language is not English must submit acceptable scores on the Test of English as a Foreign Language for admission to freshman English.

For information regarding the ECT test and scores required for placement in English 306, see the General Information bulletin.

English Honors Program

The English Honors Program consists of seminar and individual study courses which are available to students accepted into the program. To be eligible, the student must have completed English 603 or 316K, and he or she must have a University grade-point average of 3.0 and a grade-point average of 3.5 in English. Deadlines for application to the program are April 15 and November 15, annually. Application forms and statements of application procedure are available in Parlin Hall 116, the English Undergraduate Advising Center.

Both English majors and non-English majors are eligible for the program; but only students who, upon graduation, have met the following requirements, may receive "Special Honors in English": (1) A major in English; (2) English 679HA, English Honors Seminar, with a grade of at least 85; (3) English 679HB, English Honors Tutorial Course, in which the student (a) passes an oral examination on English and American literature and (b) presents a thesis adjudged "Acceptable for Honors"; (4) a University grade-point average of 3.0 and a grade-point average in English of 3.5; and (5) at least sixty semester hours of course work completed at The University of Texas at Austin and counted toward the degree. Of the total semester hours credit presented for graduation, not more than sixty may be transferred from another institution.
